The World Health Organization recommends health workers, pregnant women, the elderly, children, and people with chronic conditions protect themselves from seasonal influenza by vaccinating every year.

www.who.int/influenza