HOW THE MARKETING OF FORMULA MILK INFLUENCES OUR DECISIONS ON INFANT FEEDING.

Dr. Jonathan D. Klein is Associate Vice Chancellor for Research and the Savithri V. Mahadevan Dean of the University of Chicago Medical School. His research focuses on the influence of global economic and political systems on health and health care policies. He is known for his leadership in adolescent preventive services, youth development, and family planning, and he has spent much of his career studying family planning and its impact on children’s health. Dr. Klein has contributed to a number of the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) through his work on the executive committee of the International Pediatric Association, as a member of the executive committee of the International Pediatric Association for Maternal Newborn and Child Health, and as treasurer of the International Pediatric Association. He has also been a member of the executive committee of the Pediatric Association of Chicago Illinois.

Kopano Matlwa Mabaso is a South African medical doctor & novelist. She is currently Executive Director of the Zero Stunting Campaign – a South African multi-funder initiative, aimed at halving the prevalence of stunting in South Africa by 2030. Dr. Kopano Matlwa Mabaso is a South African medical doctor & novelist. She is known for her leadership in adolescent preventive services, youth development, and family planning, and she has spent much of her career studying family planning and its impact on children’s health. Dr. Klein has contributed to a number of the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) through his work on the executive committee of the International Pediatric Association, as a member of the executive committee of the International Pediatric Association for Maternal Newborn and Child Health, and as treasurer of the International Pediatric Association. He has also been a member of the executive committee of the Pediatric Association of Chicago Illinois.

Kathriona Devereux

Dr. Hugo López-Gatell Ramírez is a Medical Specialist in Internal Medicine, holding a Doctor in Epidemiology and National Focal Point for International Health Regulations. With an extensive experience in academy and public service, Dr. López-Gatell has served as Director General of Mexico’s Secretariat of Health, as Undersecretary of Prevention and Health Promotion, and as Coordinator of the Ministry of Health’s National Health Information System. In 2003 he was the manager of the Mexican National Family Health Survey. Dr. López-Gatell has also been a member of the Executive Committee of the International Pediatric Association, and the National Council of Environment Education. He is currently serving as Director for Innovation in Infectious Disease Surveillance and Control of the Research Center on Infectious Diseases.

Téodros Adhanom Ghebreyesus was elected WHO Director-General for a five-year term by WHO Member States at the Seventieth World Health Assembly in May 2017. Dr. Adhanom was selected following an open, transparent, and merit-based selection process. A public health expert and former Ethiopian Minister of Health, he was appointed to the position after a term as WHO’s Regional Director for Africa. He will lead the 14,000-member WHO workforce, supporting countries and fostering global cooperation to achieve the health-related targets of the Sustainable Development Goals.

Biographies