

Build resilience and reduce climate risks to support NAPs – with focus on Food Security, Health and DRR

This event will contribute to an improved understanding & awareness of the tools, approaches and strategies for building community resilience and reducing disaster risk with focus on health, food security and ecosystems and will showcase efforts in supporting development of national adaptation plans.

Tuesday, 19 Nov 2013 - 18:30-20:00, Room Wroclaw

Programme: Moderated by Dr Maria Neira – Director of the Public Health and Environment, WHO

MOE South Africa – The links between restoration and resilience, experiences from South Africa (TBC)

Dr Elena Manaenkova, WMO – Global Framework for Climate Services-strengthening of national early warning systems for national risk reduction and resilience

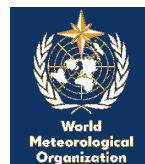

Dr. Braulio Ferreira De Souza Dias, CBD – The conservation and restoration biodiversity and ecosystems, to support food security, human health and strengthen disaster risk reduction for resilience and adaptation

Dr Iqbal Kabir, Coordinator Climate Change and Health Promotion Unit (CCHPU), Ministry of Health & Family Welfare, Bangladesh - Climate-health early warning systems

Elwyn Grainger-Jones, Director of Environment and Climate Division, IFAD – multiple-benefit approaches to smallholder agriculture, which improve production while reducing and diversifying climate-related risks

Luna Abu-Swaireh, United Nations Office for Disaster Risk Reduction (UNISDR), National adaptation planning inclusive of disaster risk reduction to achieve a climate resilient development.

A Side Event organized by:

Convention on Biological Diversity

UNISDR
The United Nations Office for Disaster Risk Reduction

Enabling poor rural people to overcome poverty

