SUMMARY OF DELIBERATIVE SESSIONS

3. During its deliberative sessions, the Review Committee discussed the findings of the three technical subcommittees which were tasked to conduct SWOT (strengths, weaknesses, opportunities and threats) analyses to identify factors that promote or inhibit successful implementation of the International Health Regulations 2005 (IHR) and to identify desirable outcomes. The Committee also discussed its interviews with key informants as well as documentation related to the IHR and the Ebola virus disease outbreak which the Secretariat had prepared at its request.

4. The Committee began development of preliminary recommendations and discussed the organization and writing of its final report.
5. The Committee plans to contact States Parties, the United Nations and its specialized agencies, and other relevant intergovernmental organizations and nongovernmental organizations in official relations with WHO to seek their input through an open consultation process. Specifically, the Committee is interested in their views on how compliance with the IHR can be improved and the support needed to effectively implement the IHR in countries and at all levels of the WHO.

6. The Chair proposed a schedule and plan of organization for the remainder of the Committee’s work. The Committee will continue in deliberative sessions during a third inter-sessional meeting to be held 9-11 December 2015 in Geneva. Further interviews with key informants will be conducted by the Committee at that time. In the inter-sessional periods, the Committee and its technical subcommittees will continue their work through teleconference and electronic exchange.
