

WEBINAR PROGRAMME

Alcohol and the environment: How to green alcohol control policies?

18 September 2023 | 13:00–14:00 CET

Programme

Moderator Tara Neville, Technical Officer, Less Alcohol Unit, Department of Health Promotion, World Health Organization

Opening

Welcome address Rüdiger Krech, Director, Department of Health Promotion, World Health Organization

Opening remarks Maria Neira, Director, Department of Environment, Climate Change and Health, World Health Organization

Evidence of the environmental impacts of alcohol production and consumption

What do we know, where are the gaps, and what does it mean for policy? Pauline Scheelbeek, Associate Professor in Planetary Health and Nutritional Epidemiology, London School of Hygiene and Tropical Medicine, United Kingdom

Towards integrated policy and action

Considering the environmental costs of alcohol Frank Pega, Technical Officer, Department of Environment, Climate Change and Health, World Health Organization

Alcohol policy and the Sustainable Development Goals Kristina Sperkova, President, Movendi International, Sweden

Youth insights into awareness and advocacy for catalyzing action Katja Čič, Manager (Youth Health Focus), Youth Health Organization International

Questions from audience and closing

Final remarks Juan Tello, Head, Less Alcohol Unit, Department of Health Promotion, World Health Organization

► Registration

Registration in advance is required to receive a direct link to the event. Please visit the webinar-specific registration link above for further details. Please contact us for more information on how to apply for consideration at: lessalcohol@who.int.

The event is organized by the Less Alcohol Unit of the Department of Health Promotion at the World Health Organization.