

SATELLITE SESSION

WHO launches a new guidance for the integration of STI services for people who use HIV PrEP at IUSTI Congress

Satellite session

Don't let the opportunity pass: Integrating STI services for people on HIV PrEP

Services that offer PrEP for HIV infection are a major opportunity and gateway for improved STI management and response. At the 23rd IUSTI Congress, WHO will launch a new module of the WHO PrEP Implementation Tool to support countries implementing, improving, and scaling up STI services for people on PrEP.

Date:

Tuesday, 6 September

Time:

10:30 - 12:00
[UCT+2]

Venue:

Kalundu Conference Room

Speakers:

1. Geoff Garnett, Bill and Melinda Gates Foundation
2. Erica Spielman, WHO, Switzerland
3. Rachel Baggaley, WHO, Switzerland
4. Ines Dourado, Federal University of Bahia, Brazil
5. Saiqa Mullick, Wits University RHI, South Africa
6. Ministry of Health representative, Namibia
7. Heather Ingold, UNAIDS, Switzerland

The STI integration module provides guidance for programme managers and other decision-makers, as well as for facility managers and other health care workers. People who use PrEP will also benefit from this publication.

The satellite session will:

- Highlight the global status of national guidance on STI services provision for people on PrEP
- Provide an overview of the new WHO STI service integration module for people on PrEP
- Provide country examples on different aspects of STI service integration highlighting barriers, facilitators and lessons learnt
