

DEVELOPMENT OF OCCUPATIONAL HEALTH AND SAFETY PROGRAMMES FOR HEALTH WORKERS

Programme development at the national and subnational levels may require close collaboration between the ministry of health or the district health team and other relevant national and local government agencies, representatives of employers' and workers' organizations, professional associations of health workers and patient groups.

At the facility level, the development of the occupational health programmes will require continuous improvement process and regular dialogue between employers, workers and their representatives, as well as other stakeholders in the health facility and in the community.

The programme development process may involve the following steps:

Some of these steps may occur simultaneously, be repeated, or carried out in a different order or at different times depending on the local circumstances.