5.1 Introduction

WHO Indonesia, in collaboration with the Ministry of National Development Planning (Bappenas), seeks a qualified institution to conduct an Analysis of Inactive JKN Membership in Indonesia: Understanding Determinants, Implications, and Policy Options to Improve Effective Coverage and Sustainability of JKN Despite achieving near universal population coverage, a substantial number of JKN members remain inactive and are unable to effectively access health services and financial protection benefits. 5.2.4 Work to be performed

The Contractor should provide support to the Directorate of Public Health and Nutrition, Ministry of National Development Planning (Bappenas), under the guidance of WHO Indonesia, to conduct an evidence-based analysis of inactive JKN membership in Indonesia.

1. Requirements – Planning

1. Background Objectives

The National Health Insurance (Jaminan Kesehatan Nasional/JKN) program is a cornerstone of Indonesia's commitment to achieving Universal Health Coverage (UHC). In accordance with the World Health Organization's (WHO) UHC framework, UHC aims to ensure that all people obtain the health services they need without suffering financial hardship, encompassing three critical dimensions: who is covered (population coverage), which services are covered (service coverage), and what proportion of costs are covered (financial protection coverage). Since its implementation, JKN has significantly expanded population coverage and improved access to essential health services. The program operates on the principle of social health insurance, emphasizing risk pooling, cross-subsidization, and mandatory participation to ensure financial protection and equitable access to healthcare.

Despite these achievements, the sustainability and effectiveness of JKN are increasingly challenged by the growing and persisting number of members classified as inactive (non-active participants). Inactive membership primarily refers to individuals who are registered in the system but are not eligible to access benefits, often due to non-payment of premiums (particularly among non-wage earners), administrative lapses, employment transitions, or other systemic and socioeconomic barriers.

The persistence of a large inactive members hollows out the UHC Cube across all three dimensions:

- While nominal registration statistics may suggest near-universal coverage, the high volume of inactive statuses reveals a stark gap in effective coverage. On paper, these individuals count toward national UHC milestones, but in reality, they remain uninsured against health shocks.
- Inactivity creates immediate inequities in access to healthcare services. Inactive members, especially among vulnerable and near-poor populations, face administrative barriers to obtaining needed care at the point of service, forcing them to either delay treatment or incur catastrophic out-of-pocket expenses.
- Beyond access barriers, inactive membership may also affect the affordability of healthcare services and medicines. Individuals who lose active coverage may be required to pay out-of-pocket for consultations, diagnostics, medicines, and other health services, potentially creating financial barriers to seeking care. As a result, some inactive members may postpone, forego, or discontinue needed healthcare due to cost considerations, which could lead to poorer health outcomes and increased health system costs in the longer term.
- High rates of inactivity undermine the fundamental principle of risk pooling. As the pool of active, contributing members shrinks, a smaller proportion of the population bears the escalating financial burden of collective healthcare costs. This directly threatens the long-term financial sustainability of the JKN system.

In this context, the development of a policy analysis focusing on the analysis of inactive JKN membership is both timely and critical. The policy brief is expected to provide a clear and concise synthesis of data-driven findings, highlight key policy issues, and propose actionable recommendations to improve membership activation, retention, overall program performance, as well as to mitigate the inequities in access to health services for inactive JKN members.

2. Objectives

The objective of this activity is to develop a policy analysis that provides an evidence-based analysis of inactive JKN membership and recommend strategic policy options. The scope of activities is as follows:

- a. Analyzing trends and patterns of inactive JKN membership.
- b. Identifying key determinants contributing to inactive status.
- c. Review of existing regulations, policies, and literature related to inactive JKN membership.
- d. Assessing the implications of inactive membership on program sustainability and access to healthcare.
- e. Assessing the affordability of healthcare services and medicines, as well as the extent of forgone care among inactive JKN members and populations at risk of becoming inactive.
- f. Formulating policy recommendations: reducing inactive membership, improving compliance, and mitigating limited access to health care for inactive JKN members.
 - Strengthening Governance & stakeholders mapping.
 - Strengthening Financing scheme .

3. Scope of Work

- a. Developing a policy review that analyzes the trends, root causes, and impacts of inactive JKN membership to formulate strategic recommendations that focused on governance, stakeholder mapping, and financing to improve compliance and safeguard healthcare access.
 - Analysis of trends, patterns, and determinants of inactive JKN membership;
 - Assessment of the implications of inactive membership on healthcare access, affordability of healthcare services and medicines, financial protection, and forgone care;
 - Review of relevant policies, regulations, and institutional arrangements related to inactive JKN membership;
 - Identification of governance, operational, and financing challenges contributing to inactive membership; and
 - Development of evidence-based policy recommendations to improve membership activation, retention, contribution compliance, and equitable access to healthcare services.
- b. Facilitating cross-sectoral consultations and discussions, which includes:
 - Organizing Focus Group Discussions (FGDs) with relevant stakeholders across line ministries/agencies (Kementerian/Lembaga) and endemic regions; and
 - Facilitating a national workshop to disseminate the policy brief to relevant stakeholders.
- c. Coordinating and synergizing efforts, which includes:
 - Coordinating with the WHO to ensure international standards are accommodated; and
 - Reporting work progress periodically to the Bappenas & WHO Team

4. Methodology

- 1) Literature review and secondary data analysis
- 2) Consultation processes including forums, focus groups discussion with government, academics, experts, and other relevant stakeholders (as needed)
- 3) Field visit (as needed)

A field visit will be conducted to explore issues regarding inactive membership based on criteria mutually agreed upon with the consultant. In each region, data and information gathering will be carried out through focus group discussions (FGDs) or in-depth interviews with relevant informants, tentatively including the Health Office (Dinkes) and the Social Affairs Office (Dinsos). The indicative option is to visit North Sumatra, as it is a province with a relatively low membership achievement rate.
