A minimum of [80] points is required to pass the technical evaluation.

Please note that WHO is not bound to select any bidder and may reject all proposals. Furthermore, since a contract would be awarded in respect of the proposal which is considered most responsive to the needs of the project concerned, due consideration being given to WHO's general principles, including the principle of best value for money, WHO does not bind itself in any way to select the bidder offering the lowest price.

WHO may, at its discretion, ask any bidder for clarification of any part of its proposal. The request for clarification and the response shall be in writing. No change in price or substance of the proposal shall be sought, offered or permitted during this exchange.

NOTE: WHO is acting in good faith by issuing this RFP. However, this document does not oblige WHO to contract for the performance of any work, nor for the supply of any products or services.

At any time during the evaluation/selection process, WHO reserves the right to modify the scope of the work, services and/or goods called for under this RFP. WHO shall notify the change to only those bidders who have not been officially eliminated due to technical reasons at that point in time.

WHO reserves the right at the time of award of contract to extend, reduce or otherwise revise the scope of the work, services and/or goods called for under this RFP without any change in the base price or other terms and conditions offered by the selected bidder.

Annex 1: Detailed Terms of Reference

1. Purpose of the APW

The World Health Organization (WHO) Philippines is looking for an institutional contractual partner to provide technical assistance on review and updating of Parenting Effectiveness Service (PES) modules in the Philippines under an Agreement for Performance of Work (APW)

2. Background

In the Philippines, Constitution provides for the rights of the child and special protection from all forms of neglect, abuse, cruelty, exploitation and other conditions prejudicial to their development. Children are also entitled to parental care, right to at least elementary education, be given moral and civic training by their parents and guardian, and right to live in an atmosphere conducive to their physical and intellectual development.

Since 1983, the Parent Effectiveness Service (PES) Program has been a component of the Early Childhood Care and Development (ECCD) of the Department of Social Welfare and Development, and for implementation by the Local Government Units. The importance of parenting interventions has been reinforced by similar national policies and legislations such as the Republic Act 10410 or Early Years Act of 2013, which promotes the right of children to survival, development, and seeks to support parents in their roles as primary caregivers and as their children's first teachers. Parent Education is deemed essential to as a means of providing parents with information and skills and support systems to assist them in their roles as their children's primary caregivers and educators. The development approach to child rearing requires knowledge and training for parents to help their children go through each stage of development until the children becomes a full functioning individual.

In 2022, Republic Act 11908 or The Parent Effectiveness Service Program Act was passed into law. This act mandates the establishment and implementation of the Parent Effectiveness Service Program to strengthen parental involvement in their children's development and learning. The implementing rules and regulations (IRR) of said Act was developed in 2023. In implementation, "the local government units (LGUs) shall give priority to parents and/or parent-substitutes with vulnerable children, such as but not limited to children at risk, children in conflict with the law, and children who have been exposed to and/or involved in violence in the homes and communities, solo parents and/or their parent-substitutes, and adolescent parents and their parents, and/or parent-substitutes."
