

United Action Against Cancer

A pan-European cancer movement
– from grassroots to government

World Health Organization

REGIONAL OFFICE FOR Europe

VISION: eliminate cancer as a life-threatening disease in Europe

Why do we need to act?

Each day in the WHO European Region, 13 100 people are diagnosed with cancer and 6000 die from it – many of these deaths are preventable

The risk of DEVELOPING cancer is ...

3x higher in northern
Europe than in central Asia

The chance of being CURED from cancer is ...

2.5x higher in northern
Europe than in central Asia

What needs to change?

- Cancer inequalities among and within countries are strong: for example, low incomes are associated with worse cancer outcomes
- Healthy choices are often considered as an individual responsibility, yet policies enabling healthy choices remain underimplemented
- Human papillomavirus and hepatitis B vaccine uptake remains too low in many countries
- Most national resources are dedicated to cancer treatment, while prevention, early detection and palliative care remain underdeveloped
- Accessibility, affordability and quality of diagnosis and treatment services are suboptimal in most countries
- Many patients are diagnosed late due to:
 - slow diagnostic processes for symptomatic cancers
 - low-quality screening for asymptomatic cancers
- The affordability of cancer medicines is challenging in all countries, including high-income ones
- Access to pain relief and supportive care remains limited in most countries
- Policy decisions are too often steered by commercial and economic interests rather than by evidence

How can we succeed?

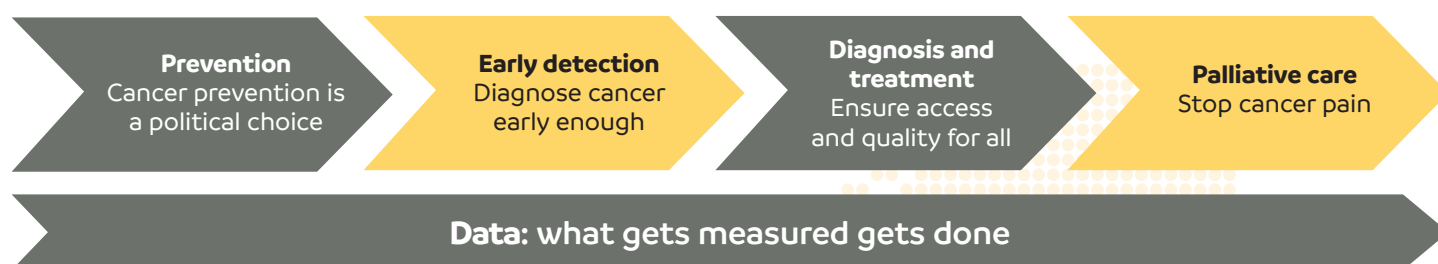

We can:

- enhance collaborations and unite partners from all levels
- reinforce political leadership in countries
- engage young people and civil society to galvanize grassroots movements
- fast-track implementation of WHO signature solutions

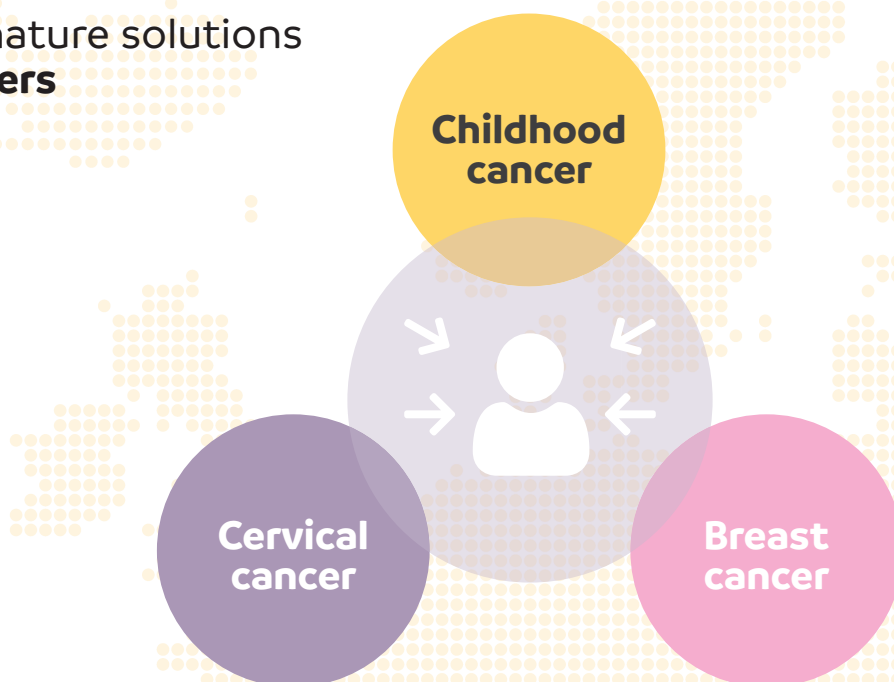

WHO signature solutions

WHO signature solutions are a set of cost-effective evidence-based policies and measures accompanied by technical guidance and tools for implementation. The signature solutions align WHO expertise and resources to achieve real impact at country level. The United Action Against Cancer movement brings them forward to policy-makers, enabling them to make the right decisions to tackle cancer effectively.

WHO signature solutions cover the 5 dimensions of the cancer-control continuum

WHO signature solutions on 3 cancers

United Action Against Cancer is articulated around two values:

Being people-centred

Leaving no one behind

The deep inequalities in cancer outcomes observed among and within countries call for more solidarity and strong commitment to reposition people at the centre and leave no one behind.
